

World Malaria Day 2009 Congressional Briefing

Malaria devastates families and communities around the world. This preventable disease kills almost one million people every year, with 80% of the deaths occurring among children in sub-Saharan Africa. The U.S. has increased support for the battle against malaria in recent years, but must do a better job supporting sustainable solutions—approaches that effectively combat malaria without putting human health or the environment at risk.

View as PDF »

Source URL:

<http://www.panna.org/issues/publication/world-malaria-day-2009-congressional-briefing>