

Fall 2010: Get Together & Get to Work

By PAN's analysis, the key strategic task of this moment is to gather strength and momentum—build power—to engage in the public struggle for America's values with truth and compelling stories, and redouble our efforts where mega-corporations have the least influence: local organizing and movement building. In this issue we call for reclaiming our democratic roots and gathering our friends to build power for change from the ground up. We unmask mythmakers who work to keep us off balance, and we report on progress toward breaking the bonds of the corporate food system.

Source URL: <http://www.panna.org/issues/publication/fall-2010-get-together-get-work>