

Beekeepers, environmentalists ask EPA to suspend use of pesticide that may be harmful to bees

Commercial beekeepers and environmental organizations are asking federal regulators to suspend use of a pesticide they say harms honeybees.

The groups filed a petition Wednesday urging the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to ban the insecticide clothianidin.

Beekeepers and some scientists say the chemical contributes to colony collapse disorder by weakening bees' immune systems and making them more susceptible to pathogens.

Read Article: Washington Post »

The Washington Post

Source URL:

<http://www.panna.org/media-center/press/beekeepers-environmentalists-ask-epa-suspend-use-pesticide-may-be-harmful-bees>